INTRODUCTION

Article 33 of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD) outlines state obligations regarding national implementation and monitoring. Historically the main accountability mechanism in UN human rights treaties has been periodic reporting by states to a UN expert committee. An innovation in the CRPD is the requirement of states to create a framework to facilitate constructive domestic dialogue with the aim of promoting ongoing implementation of the Convention.

Other conventions outline obligations only. They are silent on how these obligations are to be realized. Article 33 obligates states to take concrete procedural, organizational, and administrative actions to transform rights into actions.

Article 33.2 of the Convention is of particular relevance to National Institutions for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights (NHRIs). Article 33.2 requires states to implement a “... framework...to promote, protect and monitor implementation.” Within the “framework” a number of governmental and civil society entities may be implicated. The Convention also requires that there be “...one or more independent mechanisms...” involved in the process. In creating the framework, states are to take into account the Principles Relating to the Status of National Institutions (the Paris Principles) adopted by the UN General Assembly in 1993.¹

Article 33 National implementation and monitoring

- 1. States Parties, in accordance with their system of organization, shall designate one or more focal points within government for matters relating to the implementation of the present Convention, and shall give due consideration to the establishment or designation of a coordination mechanism within government to facilitate related action in different sectors and at different levels.*
- 2. States Parties shall, in accordance with their legal and administrative systems, maintain, strengthen, designate or establish within the State Party, a framework, including one or more independent mechanisms, as appropriate, to promote, protect and monitor implementation of the present Convention. When designating or establishing such a mechanism, States Parties shall take into account the principles relating to the status and functioning of national institutions for protection and promotion of human rights.*
- 3. Civil society, in particular persons with disabilities and their representative organizations, shall be involved and participate fully in the monitoring process.*

THE SURVEY

The Convention does not require states to name existing Paris Principle compliant NHRIs to be the independent mechanism (IM). It only requires that in establishing such mechanisms that the Paris Principles be taken into account. However, given their human rights mandate and experience NHRIs are well suited to carry out this role.²

The Convention was opened for signature in March 2007. To date (August 2011) 149 states have signed the Convention and 103 have ratified it.

NHRIs attending the Third Conference of States Parties to the CRPD (September 2010, New York) agreed that it was timely to survey National Institutions on their experience to date regarding implementation of article 33.2. The Canadian Human Rights Commission led this initiative on behalf of the International Coordinating Committee of National Institutions for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights (ICC)³ and with the assistance of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights.

In December 2010 the Chair of the ICC, Rosslyn Noonan, sent a questionnaire to all accredited members of the ICC.⁴ See Annex A for a copy of the questionnaire. A follow-up email was sent in February 2011.

Forty-five percent of A Status NHRIs (35) responded with sufficient information to be included in this report. Eight responses were received from organizations with B or C status. This report focuses on responses from A Status NHRIs.

ANALYSIS⁶

- Signature and ratification: States with accredited NHRIs are almost 25% more likely to have signed and ratified the Convention than are states that have no accredited NHRI.

- NHRIs Designated as Independent Mechanisms:
 - Forty-four percent (12) of NHRIs from states that have ratified the CRPD report that they have the sole (7) or a shared role (5) as the “independent mechanism” pursuant to Article 33.2.

 - 80 percent of NHRIs from states that have ratified the CRPD and have designated independent mechanisms have appointed their accredited NHRI as the independent mechanism or part thereof.

 - In the five states where the role is shared with other institutions there are a total of 9 partner agencies. Three of these are institutions that are similar to NHRIs (ombuds, mediator) although they are not accredited. Two are A Status sub-national NHRIs.⁷ The other four partner agencies appear to be disabled persons organizations that, although they have a critical role in the implementation of Article 33.2, do not have the attributes of a Paris Principle compliant organization.⁸

 - Only a third of the states that have designated a NHRI to have sole or shared responsibility have provided additional funding for them to carry out this role.

 - Seven out of the 12 NHRIs that have sole or shared responsibility for the independent mechanism function report that they have been, or anticipate being, consulted in the preparation of their state’s initial report to the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

 - Responses on whether designated NHRIs will submit shadow reports as part of the review process conducted by the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities are mixed. Only four

⁶ All percentages in this section (unless otherwise noted) are based on the 35 National Institutions that responded to the survey and NOT on the total number of National Institutions.

⁷ Northern Ireland Human Rights Commission, Scottish Human Rights Commission

⁸ It is a matter of interpretation whether all organizations sharing the independent mechanism role must be Paris Principle complainant or whether it is sufficient that at least one partner be complainant. This would depend, in part, on the division of responsibilities between the partners particularly with regard to monitoring compliance.

NHRIs reported that they would submit shadow reports. One said they would not file a shadow report, one was undecided and one indicated that it would submit one if needed. The other six NHRIs did not indicate whether they intended to file shadow reports.

- Other bodies designated as independent mechanisms: In three states (12%) there has been a decision to assign independent mechanism role to another body. Although information on these three institutions is not complete, it appears that they do not comply with the Paris Principles.
- No decision: The remaining 12 NHRIs reported that no action has yet been taken to appoint an independent mechanism. Three of these NHRIs reported that although they had not been officially designated they were monitoring CRPD implementation using their existing powers. Implementation of the CRPD is still in its initial stages. As states turn their attention to the monitoring function it is likely that other NHRIs will be given a role under 33.2.
- Not yet ratified: Eight NHRIs reported that their state has not yet ratified the CRPD and therefore no official designations have been made pursuant to Article 33.2. There is one exception. Although Luxembourg has not yet ratified the Convention, the Mediator of Luxembourg has been designated in advance as the independent mechanism.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

In May 2011 the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities issued its Concluding Observations on the Initial Report of Tunisia. This was the first report to be reviewed by the Committee.

Tunisia does not have an accredited NHRI. The government of Tunisia has designated the Higher Committee for Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms to act as the independent mechanism pursuant to Article 33.2. In its Concluding Observations on Tunisia's Initial Report the Committee recommended that Tunisia:

*Ensure that the Higher Committee for Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms complies with the Principles relating to the Status of National Institutions (see General Assembly resolution 48/134, annex), and establish a dedicated unit on disabilities.*⁹

Spain is one of the three states that has an accredited NHRI (El Defensor del Pueblo) but has appointed a non-accredited body, the Committee of Representatives of Persons with Disabilities (CERMI), to be the IM. In June 2011 the Committee on the CRPD issued a list of issues to be discussed with Spain as part of the Committee's review of Spain's Initial Report to take place in September 2011. With regard to Article 33.2 the Committee asked Spain to:

*... explain whether the ...CERMI complies with the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (Paris Principles).*¹⁰

The Committee's recommendation to Tunisia, and its question to Spain, coming as part of the first two reviews of Initial Reports, is a positive indication that the Committee intends to recommend that State Parties ensure that independent mechanisms comply with the Paris Principles as a matter of good practice.

A similar development has occurred with regard to the work of the ICC Sub-Committee on Accreditation. In May 2011 the Sub-Committee re-accredited the Canadian Human Rights Commission as an A Status NHRI. However, it recommended that the Commission urge the Government of Canada to amend the Commission's governing legislation to make it clear that it had the authority to monitor the CRPD and other international instruments:

⁹ Concluding Observation of the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, Fifth Session, 11-15 April 2011, issued May 11, 2011, CRPD/C/TUN/CO/1 See: <http://www.ohchr.org/EN/HRBodies/CRPD/Pages/Session5.aspx>

The SCA notes the provisions in Part II and Part III of the [Canadian Human Rights] Act that provide the CHRC with a mandate to undertake activities in relation to human rights and freedoms. It notes however that this mandate could be more clearly elaborated in the enabling legislation. The SCA encourages the CHRC to advocate for amendments to more clearly establish a broad mandate to promote and protect all human rights, including monitoring implementation of UPR recommendations and the national monitoring mechanism under article 33 of the ICRPD. The SCA refers to Paris Principles A.2: “A national institution shall be given as broad a mandate as possible, which shall be clearly set forth in a constitutional or legislative text, specifying its composition and its sphere of competence.” (Emphasis added)

These initiatives by the Committee on the CRPD and the ICC Sub-Committee on Accreditation should encourage states to designate NHRIs as independent mechanisms. It may also encourage states that do not currently have NHRIs to create them.

FUTURE PROSPECTS

The prospects for widespread involvement of NHRIs in the implementation of Article 33.2 are encouraging. In states that have an A Status Institutions, 44% of those institutions have been designated as independent mechanisms. In only 12% of states has another organization been designated. If this trend holds for the 12 states that have ratified but not yet designated an independent mechanism, eventually over 80% of NHRIs surveyed may be designated.

2	Ratified	No. AIHRC has lobbied for signing and ratification. Formed advocacy committee with 14 NGOs but government has taken no action to date.
3	Independent Mechanism	No
12	Status re 33.2	Since Afghanistan has not yet ratified the CRPD , therefore, no step has been taken by the Government to give responsibility to either the AIHRC or SCO to monitor the implementation of the CRPD . However, the AIHRC has been mandated by the Article 58 of the Afghan Constitution and the AIHRC Law to promote, protect and monitor human rights situation in Afghanistan and investigate complaints of citizens where their rights have been abuses. The AIHRC has the mandate to monitor the implementation of the Constitution's provisions, other laws of Afghanistan and Afghanistan's commitments to human rights standards. Given this into account, the AIHRC, once the CRPD is ratified by the Government, is committed to, in cooperation with Afghan civil society organization, monitor the implementation of the CRPD in Afghanistan.

3	Independent Mechanism	No. But the Office of the Ombudsman (Defensoria del Pueblo) has taken on an informal role of monitoring in cities of less than 5000 especially in disadvantaged regions of the country.
6	Previous work on disability
7	Funding	No. Cooperative work being carried out with Citizens' Rights Movement and other parts of civil society.
8	Plans	The Office of the Ombudsman has signed a technical and advisory services agreement with the Citizens' Rights Movement. As a result, a Follow-Up and Monitoring Program was prepared with respect to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, in which actions are planned for the preselected regions, provinces and cities. Based on the Country Report presented by the Argentine government to the United Nations (October 2010) -- in which it responds regarding its activity with respect to the Convention, the actions and activities in our Program are being fine-tuned and work is being carried out on three levels: the articles in the Convention, monitoring requirements as per the Guidelines and the response to each article by the Argentine government through the National Advisory Committee for the Integration of Persons with Disabilities, an organization belonging to the Argentine Executive Branch designated to coordinate and draft the Country Report.
9	Periodic Report/ Shadow Report	Attended as an observer at consultations on the drafting of the initial report. May issue a shadow report.

2	Ratified	Yes: Australia ratified the Convention on 17 July 2008.
3	Independent Mechanism	Yes
4	Sole or shared	Sole
5	Means of establishment	Administrative action taken under existing legislation. The AG made a declaration under the Australian Human Rights Commission Act 1986 that had the effect of including the rights in the CRPD among those subject to the purview of the AHRC
6	Previous work on disability	Yes. Since inception in 1986 pursuant to UN declarations and instruments. Since 1993 pursuant to the Disability Discrimination Act. Disability Discrimination Commissioner with dedicated staff. Has issued many reports and studies on disability related issues.
7	Funding	No. However, $6.6 M allotted over 5 years for work on a "Human Rights Framework".
8	Plans	Proactive planning by the Commission for activity to protect, promote and monitor the implementation of the rights recognised in the Convention for people with disability in Australia is constrained at present by the lack of provision of additional resources for what are potentially very broad and important roles. The Commission also views it as important to bear in mind that Article 33(2) approaches the roles of an independent mechanism in protection, promotion and monitoring as part of a national framework, rather than these roles operating in isolation. Views in this respect are set out in more detail in a paper for the Asia Pacific Forum of National Human Rights Institutions and more recently in a paper presented to an expert forum on National Disability Strategies as a mechanism for implementation of the Convention. Australia's governments are expected to endorse a National Disability Strategy based on the Convention on 14 February 2011 with a 12 month timetable for development of detailed implementation plans. A major part of the Commission's work in relation to the Convention over the next 12 months will be to assist in and influence this process.
9	Periodic Report/ Shadow Report	The AHRC was consulted in the development of the 1 st Periodic Report. AHRC is considering whether to make its views known in the reporting process.
10	Involvement of PWDs	Works in close consultation with national peak organisations. In the development of Australia's National Disability Strategy the Commission has emphasised, and governments have accepted, the importance of the requirements of Article 33 for participation and involvement. In particular (1) there has been consultation with disability representative organisations in the development of the draft Strategy and (2) the draft Strategy includes a commitment to participation in the development of the more detailed implementation plan required.
11	Cooperation	Yes. AHRC has conducted capacity building workshops in a number of Pacific nations. Works in cooperation with Asia-Pacific Forum.

12	Status re 33.2	In July 2010, the Ministry of Foreign Relations consulted the Ministry of Social Protection regarding its designation as the responsible authority under article 33 of the Convention. The Ministry of Social Protection responded that “considering that the application of policy on disabilities involves stakeholders in different sectors, such as education, communications, transport, housing and environment, as well as the national institutions that ensure the protection of human rights, we believe that the proposed designation should apply not only to the Ministry of Social Protection, but to all ministries, agencies and other national institutions whose functions include the formulation and implementation of public policy on persons with disabilities.” However, in the framework of the provisions of article 33.2 of the Convention, and given the constitutional status of the offices of the Ombudsman and the National Attorney General, as well as official municipal representatives, all of the above could be authorized to implement initiatives to promote, protect and supervise the application of the Convention. This can be inferred from the provisions of articles 118, 227 and 282 of Colombia's Political Constitution.

2	Ratified	Yes: 24 July 2009
3	Independent Mechanism	Yes
4	Sole or shared	Shared with the Danish Parliamentary Ombudsman and the Central Disability Advisory Board. In the opinion of the DIHR the Parliamentary Ombudsman and the Central Disability Advisory Board are not Paris Principle compliant as they lack sufficient independence.
5	Means of establishment	Parliamentary Decision B15 adopted on 17 December 2010)
6	Previous work on disability	The Danish prohibition of discrimination on the grounds of disability is based on EC Directive 2000/78 establishing a general framework for equal treatment in employment and occupation and only covers discrimination on the labour market. In its work as a national equal treatment body and national human rights institution, DIHR takes its outset in human rights law. DIHR has had a horizontal approach to discrimination and equal treatment and has thus included disability discrimination in its work before receiving the mandate under CRPD Article 33(2).
7	Funding	$850,000 for 2011, 2012 and ongoing $810,000
8	Plans	Approximately 3-4 persons will work full-time to carry out DIHR's mandate under the CRPD Article 33(2). Protection <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • does not deal with individual complaints • considering becoming involved in strategic litigation • provide limited advice on administrative complaints procedures a • plans to create a CRPD homepage • plans to carry out substantial analyses of Danish law and policy considered to be problematic in relation to the CRPD. Promotion <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • DIHR will meet individually with each of the main Disability organisations in Denmark during the first year in order to inform them about the mandate of the DIHR and the importance of their co-operation with the DIHR in carrying out the mandate. • Annual public hearing into compliance with the CRPD • on-going dialogues with authorities • will use media to promote the CRPD Monitoring <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Shadow report to be written in close co-operation with DPOs
9	Periodic Report/ Shadow Report	DIHR may be given the opportunity to comment on the State's periodic reports. In addition, the DIHR will submit a shadow report
10	Involvement of PWDs	DIHR works closely with Danish Disability Organisations in all aspects of its work to carry out its mandate under Art. 33(2). DIHR consults with Disability Organisations on which problems of DIHR will meet with each of the main Disability Organisations individually during the first year and

ECUADOR Defensor del Pueblo de Ecuador
1	Contact	Margarita Pou Dirección Nacional de Cooperación y Relaciones Internacionales Defensoría del Pueblo de Ecuador margarita.pou@dpe.gob.ec
2	Ratified	Yes, April 2008
3	Independent Mechanism	No. The Office of the Ombudsman for Ecuador does not have direct institutional responsibility for compliance with the CRPD . However, the Republic of Ecuador's Constitution grants the Ecuadorian national human rights institution jurisdiction to act in any case where there may be human rights violations, including those that may arise against persons belonging to any vulnerable group, including persons with some type of disability. The actions taken by the Office of the Ombudsman for Ecuador are aimed at determining human rights violations and filing the corresponding actions to remedy the same.
12		In Ecuador, the entity responsible for compliance with this Convention is the Ministry of Justice and Human Rights, which is granted responsibility through an Executive Decree to “[...] coordinate the implementation of [...] obligations arising from international commitments in this area (Inter-American Human Rights System and the Universal Human Rights System).” Article 2 of that Decree establishes that it must “Coordinate with the government entity of competent jurisdiction to carry out the measures necessary to fully comply with the obligations.” In this case, the entity of competent jurisdiction is the National Council on Disabilities (CONADIS), which has national authority to issue policies, coordinate actions, and implement and promote research into the area of disabilities. One of the Ministry of Justice's tasks is to work in coordination with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Trade and Integration to achieve national implementation of the international instruments that establish the government's international obligations in the sphere of human rights. As well, these two Ministries work together to prepare and validate government reports to committees and other bodies with respect to human rights treaties. Similarly, in addition to this work, the Office of the Ombudsman has a constitutional mandate to protect the rights of Ecuadorian citizens. Work is done for the rights of persons with disabilities through the operational units of the National Office for the Protection of Human Rights and the Environment. The Ministry of Justice and Human Rights, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Trade and Integration, and the National Council on Disabilities are not considered national human rights institutions and therefore are not governed by the Paris Principles. However, their mandate does include safeguarding monitoring and compliance with the CRPD .

4	Sole or shared	Shared The Human Rights Commission, the Office of the Ombudsman and the Disability Convention Coalition have been given joint responsibility as the independent mechanism. The Disability Convention Coalition is a group of six national Disabled Persons Organizations. Only the Human Rights Commission complies with the Paris Principles; it coordinates the activities of the independent mechanisms.
5	Means of establishment	The existing legislative mandates of the Commission and the Ombudsman were sufficient to allow them to assume this function following a Cabinet decision. The Disability Convention Coalition was formed as a governance-level steering group of six major disabled peoples' organizations to give disabled people a direct and equal input into monitoring and reporting on the implementation of the CRPD . An agreement by the Executive branch of government, through the mechanism of a report to Social Policy Cabinet Committee, established the mandate and scope for the new functions of the monitoring mechanism. These were announced in May 2010 and made official in October 2010.
6	Previous work on disability	Yes <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • It is one of the two areas (along with race) in which the greatest number of complaints is received. • It monitors and reports on the status of human rights for disabled persons, for example through the Commission's National Conversation about Work, and its review of Human Rights in New Zealand 2010. • It advocates for key human rights issues for disabled peoples like, for example, inclusive education, accessible public land transport, and access to New Zealand Sign Language for Deaf People. • It intervenes in key court cases.
7	Funding	Yes – $240,000 over 3 years, inclusive of funding for a full-time disability rights commissioner

Monitor <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Vulnerable Persons Unit will monitor government compliance with ratified international standards including the CRPD e.g. on proposed legislation and policies that affect the rights of persons with disability.
9	Periodic Report/ Shadow Report	The UHRChas been involved in the drafting of the State's periodic reports and has contributed by sharing information on the status of disability rights in Uganda. The Commission will not be submitting a shadow report, but may submit a report if necessary on the situation of persons with disability.
10	Involvement of PWDs	The Paris Principles require National Human Rights Institutions to cooperate with other stakeholders. Accordingly, the Uganda Human Rights Commission will continue to work closely with persons with disability and civil society in the promotion and protection of the rights of persons with disability. Together they will promote the CRPD among policy makers, promotion of a rights based approach to disability issues in the country, to mention but a few.
11	Cooperation	Currently we are not aware of any regional initiatives. In terms of the situation in Uganda, the Uganda Human Rights Commission is working very closely with the National Council on Disability to perform our functions.
